THALASSEMIA

KNOW ABOUT THALASSEMIA

What Is Thalassemia?

It is a genetic blood disease. People born with this disease cannot make normal haemoglobin (anaemia) which is needed to produce healthy red blood cells.

What is Thalassemia Minor

People with a thalassemia mutation only in one gene are known as carriers or are said to have thalassemia minor.

Thalassemia minor results in no anaemia or very slight anaemia. People who are carriers do not require blood transfusion or iron therapy, unless proven to be iron deficient.

What is Thalassemia Major?

Children born with thalassemia major usually develop the symptoms of severe anaemia within the first year of life. Lacking the ability to produce normal adult haemoglobin, children with thalassemia major:

- ◆ They are chronically fatigued.
- ◆ They have abnormal growth.

Prolonged anaemia will cause bone deformities and eventually will lead to death within the first decade of life. The only treatment to combat severe anaemia is regular blood transfusions.

CAUSE OF THALASSEMIA

THALASSEMIA

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

How can Thalassemia be treated?

Regular blood transfusions allow patients with thalassemia to grow normally and be active. Unfortunately, transfusions result in deadly accumulation of iron in the heart and liver.

If the excess iron is not removed then the patients may suffer from a premature death due to iron overload.

How to treat Iron Overload?

- Nowadays, drugs designed to remove excess iron (iron chelators) have significantly changed the prognosis of thalassemia.
- Patients can grow and develop normally, with relatively normal heart and liver functions. Patients are living longer and having families of their own.

Do you carry Thalassemia?

- Thalassemia requires a special blood test, to be tested your doctor must order a blood test called 'haemoglobin electrophoresis', which can identify a carrier of thalassemia.
- If you, your parents or ancestors are from an area of the world where thalassemia is common, PLEASE REQUEST haemoglobin electrophoresis blood test from your doctor.
- It is important to identify yourself as a possible carrier of thalassemia (thalassemia minor). A person with thalassemia minor has a 25% chance of having a baby with thalassemia major if his/her mate also has thalassemia minor.

How do you inherit Thalassemia?

- If both parents carry thalassemia minor, their children may have thalassemia minor, or they may have completely normal blood, or they may have thalassemia major.
- In each pregnancy there is a one in four (25%) chance that their child will have normal blood, a two in four (50%) chance that the child will have thalassemia minor or a one in four (25%) chance that the child will have thalassemia major.

How can we prevent Thalassemia?

• By testing for thalassemia minor and spreading awareness about Thalassemia.
